

AUSTRIA, HUMILIATED, IS NOW LOOKING LONGINGLY TOWARDS THE END OF WAR

COOL LOGIC MARKS BELGIAN ATTITUDE TOWARD GERMANY

Treaties in Ink Violated, Must Be Rewritten in Blood, So Plucky Little Kingdom Fights Against Great Odds.

ANTWERP, Sept. 17.—(By Courier to Trend and Mail to New York.) The little Belgian soldier who climbed into the compartment was dead tired, he trailed his rifle behind him, threw himself into the seat and fell sound asleep. He was ready to talk when he awoke an hour later.

"Yes, I was up all night with German prisoners," he said. "I had a bad job. There were only sixteen of us to handle 200 Germans. We had four boxcars, and we put 25 prisoners in one end of the car and 25 at the other and then four of us with rifles sat guard by the carbox."

"That's the plucky little Belgian soldier all over. In the first place he is different from most soldiers because he is willing to fight when he knows he's going to lose."

"We have to make out the best we can," is his motto. In the second place, he's a common sense little fellow. Even while he's fighting he's doing it coolly and there is no blind hatred in his heart that causes him to waste any effort. He gets down to the why and wherefore of things."

"I really felt sorry for those German prisoners," said a comrade of the first soldier. "They were all decent fellows. They told me their officers had fooled them. They said the officers gave them French money, on the German frontier and then yelled to them 'On to France!' They went on for three days and got to Liege before they knew they were in Belgium instead of France."

"I didn't want to hurt Belgium," they told us "because we were from Alsace-Lorraine ourselves."

"You see," continued the original little Belgian, "it wasn't their fault, so we couldn't be mad at them."

"That is the Belgian idea—cool logic. 'Why did you fight the Germans?' a high Government official was asked. 'Because civilization can't exist without treaties and it is the duty that a nation owes to civilization to fight to the death when written treaties are broken.'"

"The German broke the neutrality with Belgium and we had to fight. 'But did you expect to whip the Germans?'"

"How could we? We know that borders of Germany would follow the first comers, but we had no right to worry about who would be whipped, all we had to do was to fight, and we've done it the best we could."

"It has been a head-on, logical matter with the Belgians from the start. Treaties are made with ink, but they are broken with blood, and just as naturally and coolly as the Belgian diplomats used ink in signing the treaties with Germany, the Belgian soldiers have broken them with blood in trying to maintain the agreements."

Football gives relief to England's sorrows. Managers decide to continue game during winter months.

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Football and its relations to the war continues to be the subject of earnest discussion both in England and in Scotland. Despite the recent statement of Lord Roberts that "this is no time for games," the trend of opinion among football managers is that it would be unwise, rather than a concession, to abandon this scheduled winter sport.

J. McKenna, Liverpool, presided over a meeting of the management committee of the English Football League in London yesterday. At this great meeting in the history of the British nation, he said, they desired to make the following public pronouncement:

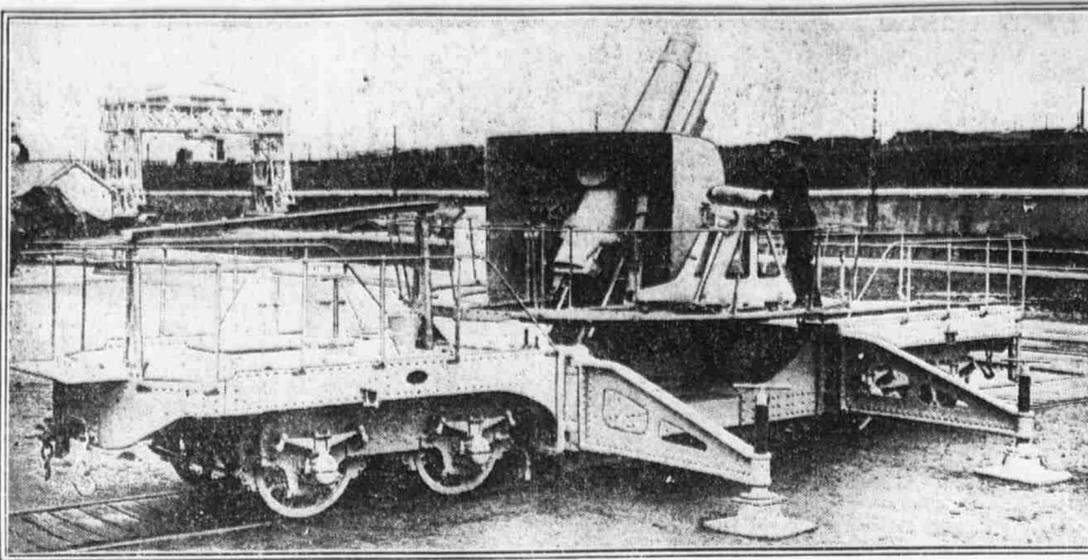

"When scores of thousands have gone and scores of thousands more follow, there will be millions of people who must remain behind and in other ways find all possible aid. In considering the course to be adopted with reference to our great winter game, we are far from forgetting the days of downy snow now with us and yet to come, days when the dark clouds that surround us will oppress and appal us. To set our moan is to aggravate the nation's sorrow."

Any national sport which can minimize the grief, help the nation to bear its sorrow, relieve the oppression of continuing strain and save the people at home from nervous and undue depression, is a great national asset which can render lasting service to the people.

We, therefore, without the slightest reservation express to the public, the press and the public that our great winter game should pursue its usual course. Especially do we appeal to the press that the same prominence and publicity should be given to the reports of the game as of old.

It is reported and the committee were gratified to hear that several clubs and their players had arranged to make special weekly contributions to the war funds. In some instances percentages of gate and percentage of wages were being contributed. The committee heartily commended such actions.

They further recommended each club to arrange for their players to undergo special military drill and arrange for the provision of a miniature rifle range to provide amuse shooting practice.

BERLIN CAMP HOLDS 100,000 ALLIES AS PRISONERS OF WAR

Cretic Passenger Describes Scene at Fort Dobritz, Kaiser's New Guns to Carry Thirty Miles.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—That Germany has under guard in one of her military camps, near Berlin, more than 100,000 Russian, British, French and Belgian prisoners was asserted by a Christian August Pfaff, who returned today from Europe on the liner Cretic, which brought 25 first class passengers from the European war zone.

"I was in Paris when the war began," said Mr. Pfaff, "and I jumped to Berlin where I stayed until September 11. I saw the mobilization of the German forces around Berlin and it was a most inspiring sight. The morale of the German troops is excellent."

"Germany is now building guns that will reach thirty miles. Her intention is to reduce the entire French coast and from there she expects to bombard Dover with these new guns."

On September 3 I went outside the city to the great military fort of Dobritz and there I saw 5000 Russian prisoners, 200 British, 200 French and a large number of Belgians. The Russians and Belgian officers were quartered together until a field hospital set among them in which four Russians were murdered. I was also in Cologne, where I saw 50 English prisoners captured in the battles around Paris, and 400 French."

KNIGHTS OF THE GARTER TO "DEGRADE" KAISER

Name to Be Expunged From Roll of Historic Order.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—Some time during the coming fortnight a somewhat painful ceremony, which happily is of rare occurrence, will take place privately in St. George's Chapel. This will be the removal of the banners and other insignia of certain Knights of the Garter and the formal pronouncement by the Garter King-at-Arms that their names are "degraded" and "no longer fitted to be included among the honorable company of Knights."

The people who will be so described are the Kaiser, the Austrian Emperor, Prince Henry of Prussia, the Grand Duke of Hesse and the Crown Prince of Germany.

Two other Knights of the Garter whose positions are at present giving rise to much consideration are the King of Wurtemberg and the Duke of Saxe-Coburg Gotha. They, too, may eventually suffer "degradation," though the probability of the latter being so treated is rather remote.

As is well known, the Duke is British by birth and education and also bears the British title of Duke of Albany.

As yet doubt exists as to whether he has actually taken the field against us, and unless it is conclusively proved that he fought against the British troops it is generally understood that he will be allowed to retain his Garter Knighthood.

It is interesting to recall that the last occasion when a "degradation ceremony" was performed was when the Czar of Russia was removed from the list of Knights after the outbreak of the Crimean War.

ARMED MEN FORCE WOMAN TO HELP IN $50,000 ROBBERY

Surrenders Combination to Safe When They Threaten to Use Explosive—Take Her $4000 Earrings.

KANKAKEE, Ill., Sept. 18.—Five armed robbers entered the home of Mrs. Nellie Clark early today and escaped with money and jewels valued at more than $5000. Armed posses in automobiles and bloodhounds are hunting the thieves.

The robbers bound and gagged the housekeeper, Marjorie Miller, Mrs. Clark, hearing the noise, looked herself in a room on the second floor, but the robbers entered the room, using a skeleton key. As they came in Mrs. Clark offered them $50, saying, "This is all I have."

The robbers took the money and ordered her to open a small iron safe standing in the room. She refused, but when they produced nitroglycerin and a fuse to blow it open she gave them the combination.

While three robbers were emptying the safe of its contents, including diamond rings, lavillieres, bracelets and pins, the other two forced Mrs. Clark to give them the diamond earrings she was wearing, threatening to cut off her ears if she did not comply. The earrings are worth $1000.

SERVIANS ABANDON SEMLIN, PURSUING NEW CAMPAIGN PLAN

Concentration Against Bosnian Capital Progresses as Austrians Suffer Heavy Losses.

PARIS, Sept. 18.—The Figaro continues today the Latin prophecy, dated in 1897, which was written by an unknown author and translated by the Marquis Johannes. Previous excerpts prophesied the coming of "Antichrist" as a monarch, a son of Luther, with the motto "God With Us."

Verdelle 18. "Antichrist will manifest himself about the year 2000. His army will surpass the imagination for number and will have Christians, but the defenders of the Lamb will have Mohammedans and savages."

Verdelle 19. "The Black Eagle (Germany) will hurt himself upon the Cock (France), who will lose many feathers, but whose spur will strike heroically. He would soon be exhausted, without the aid of the Leopard (England)."

Verdelle 20. "The White Eagle (Russia) will come from the north and will surprise the Black Eagle and the other eagle (Austria) and will invade Antichrist's country completely."

Verdelle 21. "The Black Eagle will be forced to abandon the Cock to fight the White Eagle. The Cock will pursue the Black Eagle into Antichrist's country."

Verdelle 22. "Previous battles will be nothing as compared to those fought in Antichrist's country."

Verdelle 23. "Only princes and captains will be buried. Hunger and plague will be added to carnage. The battles will make too many corpses to bury."

Verdelle 24. "Antichrist will demand peace, which will be refused until he be crushed."

Verdelle 25. "Antichrist's last battle will be fought where he forges arms. His empire will be divided into 22 states, none having any fort or army or vessel."

Verdelle 26. "The Figaro adds that verse 30 refers to Essen, in Westphalia, which the other prophecies foretold as the scene of the last battle."

ROMANCE, TRAGEDY AND COMEDY FROM BATTLEFIELDS OF EUROPE

The Exchange Telegraph correspondent at Bordeaux says: "I saw in the hospitals here among the prisoners a bearded Teuton boy, who was 15 years and 9 months old. He was a student in the technical school at Moshim and was wounded and made a prisoner in the battle of Marne. He said, in broken English, that all the students of his school who were over 15 years of age had been mobilized and placed in different regiments."

In a letter from Sergeant Cabill to his friends in Bristol "the tribute of an Irish soldier to the 'Red Cross girls.'" Cabill wrote: "The Germans give us no rest night or day, and those of us who have come through it will never forget to our dying day what it is to have to fight here. The Red Cross girls, with their pretty faces and their sweet ways, are as good men as most of us, and better than some of us. They are not supposed to venture into the firing line at all, but they get there all the same, and devil the one of us durst turn them away."

"Tommy Atkins" goes into battle shouting an inconsequent vaudeville jingle that has in it not a word about death or valor, glory or nation. And lest Americans do not know the words of this epoch-making chorus here they are, fitted for some unfathomable reason to become historic."

It's a long way to Tipperary. It's a long way to Tipperary. It's the sweetest girl I know. It's a long way to Tipperary. The author-composer of this imperishable lyric is Jack Judge, a music hall artist, and there is probably no man in the world more surprised than he—unless it is his publisher, Bert Faldman—at the "far flung" vogue it has so suddenly received. The British hero sings it when he marches to the front, and it is the "boots-boots-boots, slogan" in an "down again."

As they go into battle the Germans thunder their "Die Wacht Am Rhein," the French chant their "Marseillaise" sonorous and impressive, and the Belgians fight gallantly with their beautiful "Hambrois" on their lips, but the British sing no national air.

A British sergeant major says he believes the regiments recruited in the British cities are proving the best on the battlefields because they are accustomed to noise. "It's the quantity, not the quality of the German shells that is having the effect," he says. "The hellish noise is nerve racking."

A young artilleryman, writing to his wife in London, tells of being left on the field for dead, but finally was found and dragged from beneath his horse, which fell on him when shot. This alone which saved his life, as all other members of his battery were killed.

When the Fourth Middlesex regiment was surprised by German shells at the front with their arms stacked, the British soldiers, unable to reach their weapons, rushed upon the foe and attacked them with their bare fists. The Germans arrived in time to aid them and beat off the Germans.
